> NF biofuel pellets

The new French quality mark for wood pellets or agro pellets (agriculture-derived pellets).

NF biofuel pellets, developed by the FCBA Technological Institute, applies to wood pellets or agro pellets.

FCBA is mandated by Afnor Certification for this new quality mark, which any pellets manufacturer can access provided they respect the guidelines.

This certification, which is broken down into 5 categories, will allow consumers to choose the quality suited to their heating system:

> For wood pellets:

> Wood High-performance Quality

for all wood stoves and automatic wood pellets boilers,

> Wood Standard Quality

for certain wood stoves and automatic wood pellets boilers depending on the manufacturer's specifications,

> Wood Industrial Quality

for collective or industrial automatic wood-fired boilers depending on the manufacturer's specifications.

> For agro pellets

> Agro High-performance Quality

for domestic and automatic multi-fuel boilers,

> Agro Industrial Quality

for automatic biomass and travelling grate boilers.

NF biofuel pellets certifies the following characteristics:

- > LCV (lower calorific value) and humidity,
- > level of fines,
- > level of ashes,
- > mechanical strength,
- > density (apparent),
- > sulphur, chlorine and nitrogen content.

> The benefits for your company:

This mark provides a strong sign of recognition for biofuel pellets, for consumers looking for guarantees and proven performance for this type of product.

- The "NF" mark allows you advertise using a certification that is recognised by individuals, thanks to an easily-identifiable logo.
- Because they contribute to the performance of wood stoves and boilers, certified products may be recommended by equipment manufacturers and pellets distributors.
- You benefit from the impact and visibility of a collective mark and from the sharing of means of advertising (media, internet, ...).
- You benefit from the experience and know-how of FCBA.
